

1 Khin Mar Lwin, M.D.

2 Q My question to you is, if somebody were to
3 tell you, in November 2009, that the police
4 department engages in misconduct, is that piece of
5 information the kind of information that leads you
6 to believe that the person making that statement is 7 paranoid?

8 MR. RADOMISLI: Objection.

9 (Witness complying.)

10 A I thought he was paranoid from overall
11 picture, (indicating.) because he reported that his 12 supervisors are hiding robbery and assault cases.
13 (Indicating.) And another thing was --

14 (Witness complying.)

15 A -- according to Sgt. James, okay, he had 16 barricaded himself, and the door had to be broken to 17 get to him, okay?

18 Q If that information had been incorrect,
19 would that have changed your assessment of the 20 patient?

21 MR. CALLAN: Are you talking about all of 22 it or just the door?

23 Q If the information from Sgt. James, that 24 you just read, had been incorrect, would that have 25 changed your assessment of the patient?
